New High Bay Production Facility is started

An increased demand for larger bespoke lifting tables means that we for the moment are expanding our production facilities with a new high bay production facility with app. 1100 sq. The lifting tables and lifts that we construct and produce continues to be bigger and has made it necessary to invest in more space and more height, to enable us to handle the lifts. The new facility will be equipped with an overhead crane, which can operate over the whole area and will lead to optimizing of the working processes.

The new building is also an important element in the continuously development of our new and popular "Mast Lift", which demand much height during testing.

The new facility will add 25% to the total production areal and will help secure that we continuously can keep our production times and meet our customer's wishes regarding a fast delivery.

We aim for the new production facility to be up and running in the beginning of 2012.
